CALIFORNIA TO IOWA

BINGHAM - KIMBERLEY PARTY
MAKES PLEASANT TRIP TO DAVENPORT

In two autos a party consisting of Mrs. J. H. Bingham of Los Angeles, two sons and a daughter and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kimberly of San Fernando road was made by way of Jawbone canyon and the Owens river valley, through Westgard pass into Nevada. The party very much appreciated the evergreen hills of Lida and drove into Goldfield, Nevada, where they enjoyed the novel mining atmosphere of the city.

At Hot Creek station they found genuine hospitality on the part of some residents who had been in California and were astonished to find ice that had been kept in charcoal dust, fresh meat and vegetables.

There too, they saw a unique bathroom constructed by erecting a frame covered with burlap over a hot spring. The journey was continued through Ely, Nev. There the road was in splendid condition. Canyon succeeded canyon in picturesque succession. At Kearney's they found the inhabitants from distances of ten and fifteen miles away gathered for a dance which was ministered to by a Victrola and a player piano.

"These ranches on the desert," says Mrs. Kimberley, who gave a narrative of this trip before the Thursday Afternoon club last week, "are interesting. You can see them for many miles before you reach them. The green foliage of the trees show up against the sky. The cottonwood trees are a welcome sight. The tourist knows he can find water there and information of which he is often in need."

"After climbing up a steep grade we came to a splendid road through beautiful scenery. We passed through Fish Springs, where we had to purchase gasoline at 60 cents a gallon. Fortunately we did not need much. We had been told that if we complained of the price we could be charged $1. And after we were so astonished at the price when we reflected that the station was 143 miles from the railroad and that the freighting of the supplies took several days. The greater part of this road was very poor but as we persevered we were rewarded by coming to a fine stretch of road that took us into Salt Lake City.

"After spending a day and two nights in the Mormon metropolis we hastened on through Parley's canyon. The scenery was magnificent. We had now crossed the state line of Utah and Wyoming and went along a really desolate part of the country. The Wyoming roads are very poor. We rested at Fort Bridger, an old, abandoned fort of the '40s. We traversed the miserable roads to a little railroad town called Point of Rocks, where we camped for the night. Here we encountered rain. Next day we crawled along through the mud. Speed was out of the question. Chuck holes and a road bed torn away by rains led us at last into a cross wash where we stuck. The auto had broken its back and fractured one of its ribs—technically its near axle and one of its springs. The other machine using our skid chains at last managed to pull us out and soon after we reached a town and got scraped clean of the yellow mud. We got a new axle made at Rock Springs and received promptly a new set of springs from Denver and after nearly three days we were able to get again on our way.

"That night we camped on the banks of the Platte river, a beautiful stream with plenty of shade trees. Here we had another thunderstorm. At Laramie we spent the next night and next day traveled over a high plateau with a range of mountains on each side. We finally reached an approximate height of 8000 feet and crossed the Continental Divide marked by the Ames monument, sixty-five feet high which stands near the summit. This monument was erected to commemorate the work of Oakes and Oliver Ames to whom the completion of the Union Pacific was due.

"After viewing the wonderful panorama before us we descended and left the west behind. On the eastern side of the divide the land was so barren we wondered how it could support the millions of sheep said to be pastured there during the winter. Through Nebraska's grain fields in the trail of a disastrous cyclone, we sped on through Buffalo Bill's home town, North Platte, on to Omaha, and thence to West Liberty, where we visited the Kimberly home to the great astonishment of the family.

"Our party separated here and we went on to Davenport, Ia., and visited relatives in Little Rock, Ark., and Hot Springs, Ark. We also visited St. Louis and other points and finally came back to Davenport. We were twenty-one days on the road and were glad to rest."

SINGLE TAX QUESTION

PROPOSED LAW WOULD DEPRECIATE THE VALUE OF BUILDING LOTS

As many of your readers already know, my principal business in Glendale consists in lending the money of certain of my customers, mostly small capitalists who have accumulated through years of labor and effort sums varying from $500 to $5000. This money is loaned to others of my customers upon their real estate, consisting of modest homes or small tracts. My profit grows out of a small commission which I charge for securing the money, drawing papers, looking after the escrow, taking the acknowledgements, getting the right prices from the title companies, seeing that taxes are paid, and other details.

This business gives me abundant opportunities to measure the needs of the people in a financial way. There are two large classes among these customers to whom the adoption of the single tax system would be perilous, namely, those who lend money, and those who borrow money on real estate money.

The borrower would be the greatest sufferer of the two.

It is admitted that the single tax system would very largely depreciate the value of building lots and lands of all classes. That is one of the confessed objects of the proposed new system. It is further known that it would not add anything to the value of the improvements. I find that most people have mortgages on their property for about fifty per cent of their present value. A few have less, and many have more than this proportion. It is difficult, even now, to secure a renewal of these mortgages without the paying of a higher rate of interest than the borrower is able to afford. If single tax is adopted and the value of the lot is cut in two, it will be practically impossible to renew these mortgages, except on a basis that means the early loss of the property. This would mean widespread disaster, even in our own thrifty community.

On the other hand the lender, particularly the one who has advanced more than fifty per cent of the value of the property as a loan, would be in danger of having to take over the property—something that the average lender would do with great reluctance. To get his money back he would have to throw the property on the market at a sacrifice price. This would depreciate the values in that neighborhood, ruining values not only on the land, but on the improvements as well. The lender would thus be put to inconvenience, and in many cases to large loss.

Another class of our people who would be hard hit by the proposed single tax system is the citizen who is buying a lot on the installment plan, hoping when his payments are completed to secure a building loan and have a home of his own. Unless his lot is almost fully paid for, he will have his equity wiped out by the new system. If his lot is paid for he will find it practically impossible to secure a loan for building purposes, unless he has considerable money to put into the building himself.

People should give very earnest thought to this matter before they vote for a revolutionary system that will bring ruin to thousands of homes in this section.

K. OF P. SYMPOSIUM

The Knights of Pythias, Twin City Lodge No. 331, which meets in Castle hall, on South San Fernando road introduced a new feature at its last session last week. A symposium was organized and a very interesting hour spent in listening to the thrilling stories of Mayor Peters of the early days in Manila just after the occupation of that city by the American forces. Mr. Peters was with the first California troops sent out to capture the Philippine capital and he saw much of the varied and interesting life of the early occupation.

Dr. Mabry, who spent some time as an army surgeon in western posts also gave an interesting narrative of army life. A. J. Hibbard gave some dramatic recitations and Landon Haines thrilled the society with his graphic description of a storm in the Tennessee mountains. The symposium hour was a great success and Chancellor Commander Eachsen announced that it would be continued at future meetings.

The Thursday Afternoon club of Tropico invites the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale to its San Fernando Valley Reciprocity day, Thursday, November 2, at 2:15 at the Tropico city hall, corner of Brand boulevard and Tropico avenue. All members of the Tuesday Afternoon club are invited.

TWO AMERICANS ON TORPEDOED STEAMER

GERMAN SUBMARINE SINKS BRITISH STEAMER WITHOUT WARNING—SEVENTY LOST

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
LONDON, Oct. 30.—The steamer Marina, of Glasgow, Scotland, was shelled and sunk by a German submarine this morning. It is believed that the crew of seventy was lost. Among them were two Americans and five Filipinos. The submarine suddenly appeared and fired several shots into the Marina, which went to the bottom promptly. United States Consul General Frost, who is stationed at Queenston, Ireland, of which coast the torpedoing took place, cables Washington that the Marina was sunk without warning.

VILLA CAPTURES SANTA ROSALIA CITY

MEXICAN INSURGENT CHIEF WITH GROWING ARMY MARCHES ON IMPORTANT CITY OF PARRAL

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
EL PASO, Oct. 30.—News reached this city today to the effect that Santa Rosalia did not long resist the attack made on Carranzista troops there. Villa's men rushed the defenses and the Carranzistas fled. Many of them were killed. The victorious Villistas are now marching on Parral, which will not be able to make much resistance. The defunct troops are not in great strength and Villa's army is now swollen by daily additions to pretty nearly 10,000 men. Villa also hopes to capture the city of Jiminez.

FIELD-MARSHAL VON HINDENBURG AT BERLIN

HEAD OF GERMAN ARMIES ARRIVES IN GERMAN CAPITAL TO VISIT THE KAISER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
BERLIN, Oct. 30.—Field-Marshall Von Hindenburg arrived in Berlin this morning for the first time since the war began. He visited the Kaiser and had a long conversation with him. Von Hindenburg stated to an interviewer that he thought the French "tenacious," but that they lost much of their natural advantages by submitting to English dictation. The field-marshall will leave again for the eastern front within a day or so. His presence is needed on the Galician line.

FRENCH CAPTURE SAILLY-SAILLISEL FORT

GEN. FOCH'S MEN TAKE STRONG GERMAN POSITION THAT HAS BEEN STRENUOUSLY DEFENDED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
PARIS, Oct. 30.—The French today captured the fort at Sainy-Saillesel and drove the Germans out of all the works that they have been defending so strenuously during the past few days. The British and the French both progressed along the Bethune road and drew nearer to Bapaume in their drive. General Haig's men smashed into the Germans at Les Boeufs. Transloy, another strongly fortified position is now in the angle of the advancing troops and will soon be completely surrounded. It is the only obstacle between the advancing troops and Bapaume.

BERLIN ADMITS SUCCESS OF ROUMANIANS

HEAVY FIGHTING IN NORTHERN ROUMANIA HALTS VON FALKENHAYN IN DIFFICULT PASSES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
BERLIN, Oct. 30.—Von Falkenayn reports that the Roumanians have thrown forward a strong body of troops against his advance in the passes of Northern Roumania. This movement has checked the German advance on the railroads that run into Bucharest. The Roumanians have also made an advance in the direction of Livechi. In the Jiul valley they have also made some progress.

HUGHES BEGINS LAST STRETCH OF CAMPAIGN

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE PLANS WHIRLWIND FINISH WITH THIRTY-THREE SPEECHES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
NEW LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 30.—Charles Evans Hughes, Republican candidate for president of the United States, is planning to make a whirlwind finish of his campaign. He has laid out an itinerary of thirty-three towns in Ohio in which he will speak. Hughes is making more and more plain the platform on which he stands. He said this morning that he regarded the president's office as administrative and not political.

ACCUSES VILLISTAS OF DESTROYING TRAIN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
DOUGLAS, Ariz., Oct. 30.—De Facto Consul Lelevier stated this morning that he had received advices from Mexico to the effect that the destruction of the Calles train was the work of Villistas. The bandits are swarming everywhere and becoming emboldened by Villa's successes.

CURRENT NEWS

MACMULLIN IN ANTELOPE VALLEY—DR. GREGG IS COMING

MACMULLIN AT LANCASTER

William P. MacMullin of MacMullin's Sanitary dairy fame wrote from Lancaster, Cal., the latter part of last week saying, "I am in Antelope Valley this week rounding up and shipping three carloads of cattle. Farmers and stockmen feeling fine—hay too expensive to feed and cattle too cheap to sell. Candidate Packer and a bunch of his friends have been here two days attending the county fair. Antelope Valley is for Packer strong. This is a dry town so the Glendale bunch feels quite at home. Mrs. D. L. Lewis, wife of the president of the fair was in a Ford automobile accident and had collar bone and two ribs broken. The fair is a great success—seems like a busy day in Venice. The Antelope Valley is thirty-five miles wide and seventy-five miles long so there is plenty of room to move around here without striking elbows."

TO HONOR DR. GREGG

The action on the part of the city trustees of Glendale to honor Dr. J. W. Gregg with a dinner on Thursday evening at 6 o'clock will redound to the credit of Glendale and its officials. Amongst civic circles in Los Angeles much surprise has been occasioned that Glendale should have secured the services of such a celebrated and sought-after authority. A noted sociological worker phoned out to the president of the Glendale Garden society this query: "How did you manage it?" It is believed that the High school auditorium will be crowded to its utmost capacity when Dr. Gregg appears on the platform at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening, November 2, to give his brilliant stereopticon talk on Public Parks and Playgrounds. Dr. Gregg was invited by the park commissioners of Fresno to assist them last week in their civic landscape development. He has just returned from the California city planning conference held at Visalia, and on Thursday of this week, November 2, he travels specially to Glendale to speak under the auspices of the Glendale Garden society. This lecture will be open to the public.

DEATH OF C. E. WANDERLICK

C. E. Wanderlick, 1418 Ivy street, who was a well known figure in Glendale, died Monday morning at 3 o'clock after an illness of more than a year's duration, in the course of which he suffered severely, especially toward the last. He suffered from a form of nephritis. Mr. Wanderlick was born at McQuan, Ill., in 1860. He resided for a long time in Des Moines, Ia., where he was in the furniture business. He came to Glendale about seven years ago and was engaged in the piano business as a salesman, having been in the employment of the Fitzgerald Piano company, the Birkel company and the Allen company. The deceased leaves a widow but no children. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the Jewel City Undertaking parlors. Interment will be in Forest Lawn.

EVENING NEWS BOOSTER DAY

It is indeed gratifying to know that the people of the Glendale community so unanimously join in making a success of The Evening News booster day. Many are speaking to friends about becoming subscribers for The News and many are paying subscriptions in advance. It is ever true that the systematic businessman is never too busy to keep track of what he owes The News. There are very few of the forgetful kind on our list. Friends of this paper are asked to join with others in making booster day a still greater success.

NEW POLICE UNIFORMS

One of the early signs of the winter season in Southern California and in Glendale in particular is the change of the police uniform from the olive drab of the light summer outfit to the heavy dark blue of the winter clothing. Glendale's police are now resplendent in the winter uniform which is in keeping with the colder weather and the fog that sometimes visits the coast at night.

LAWSON & LOVE EXCHANGE PROPERTY

T. G. Love of 1303 Chestnut street has traded his residence on Chestnut street to J. W. Lawson for the Lawson residence at 1320 West Seventh street.

The Loves are moving into the Seventh street property and the Lawsons' are moving into the Chestnut street residence today.

PLEA FOR WILSON

SAYS PRESIDENT HAS HAD TO FIGHT WALL STREET SINGLE HANDED

Editor Glendale Evening News—What are Hughes' policies? I believe there are great many people in Glendale who should like to have some Republican enlightenment on this subject.

Of course it would be entirely too much to expect Hughes himself to say where he stands. In all his speeches he has tactfully avoided giving a single specific constructive suggestion.

Who, may I ask, is not in favor of preparedness, of justice to all, of civil service, of honor, of protection for citizens when possible and of conservation?

Yet these seem to be Mr. Hughes' main issues. They certainly were, at least, until the president, by prompt action, saved the country from what promised to be the greatest disaster since the civil war and Mr. Hughes made that the main issue of the campaign.

No one will deny that both Mr. Hughes and Mr. Wilson are exceptionally fine, intellectual men, both far above the average. A careful study of Mr. Wilson's achievements, however, will show why Mr. Hughes is having so hard a time to find an issue that really is an issue.

Take for instance the G. O. P. stand for preparedness. The records credit Roosevelt's administration with eighty-three million dollars in appropriations to the navy, and Taft's with 127 millions. Wilson's program has given the navy 655 million dollars.

And now the G. O. P. pleads for a return to power on the grounds of preparedness.

Take for instance, Mr. Hughes' stand on Woman's suffrage. When President Wilson went from Washington to New Jersey to vote for woman's suffrage, Mr. Hughes failed even to register. As governor, Hughes vetoed the law passed by the New York legislature giving woman teachers the same salary as men teachers.

President Wilson stands for woman's suffrage by the only practical method, state amendments, for the constitution cannot be amended except by separate action of the states, anyway.

Mr. Hughes cannot influence the states of this union to change the constitution against their will. He is like the man who sold a lion's skin, and then told his customer to take the skin off the live lion.

Mr. Hughes charges Wilson with lack of courage in the Mexican trouble. Who but a strong man could have held for humanity as Wilson has done against the heavy hand of land-owning capitalists? And it must be remembered that not only in the Mexican situation, but at every turn, has the president had to fight Wall Street single handed and alone.

Charles W. Fairbanks, Republican vice presidential candidate, is having a hard time to repudiate certain statements made by him before he was a candidate. He said in part, (from Congressional Record):

"I have no doubt that the disturbances in Mexico during the last few years have been due, in a greater or lesser degree, to an effort on the part of ambitious cunning men to force intervention."

And now for a word about Governor Hughes' wonderful labor legislation upon which subject a News correspondent recently expounded. As much as he condemns the president's national labor laws, it must be admitted that under Hughes the New York state legislature passed some excellent labor laws. How was it then, that such deplorable labor conditions existed under his administration? The answer is not hard to find. Laws are useless unless they are enforced. All Mr. Hughes could afford to see for the labor department in 1909 was $200,000. Three years later the appropriations to this department had increased to $800,000. That was not Hughes' fault. He even sneers now, at Wilson's great work for the laboring man.

And in conclusion it must be said in admission that Hughes has one distinction among all the men who have run for the presidency. He is the first to come before his fellow-citizens without a single plan, or prospect, or program of action to offer as a reason for his election.

KENNETH BELDEN.

ROUMANIAN BELATED POLICY

According to thoughtful German military opinion Roumania entered the war entirely too late to be of any service to the Allies. Roumania frankly stated her position last year when she said that she would throw the weight of her army on the winning side. It now remains to be seen if she has not waited too long to throw that weight into the scale of the war.

Germany long ago discounted the possibility of Roumania's entering the war and so placed her troops in strategic positions that would be able to take up this new aspect of the war without a moment's hesitation. It is this preparedness of Germany that has prolonged the war. Germany's plans were all laid years ago and were expected to work out like clockwork. They did so until the human element on the side of the Allies, an element of which they took no account, began to make itself manifest.

In the case of Roumania, Germany is dealing with an inferior foe. She is also dealing with a foe that is fighting for gain and not for patriotic purposes and from patriotic motives. Servia, on the other hand, a very small nation, made her patriotic spirit so felt that alone and unaided she hurled back the Austrian forces from Belgrade. Not until the Germans with their wonderful clockwork organization came on the scene did Servia, outnumbered five to one, retreat slowly from her capital and fighting every step of the road make her way over the snow clad mountains to a seaport. Then she reconstituted and re-equipped her army with British aid and came again into the field by way of Greece. That was a feat that only a truly patriotic nation could have accomplished.

The effect of such a spirit is seen in the constant success of the Servian offensive in Macedonia. Those splendid fighting men, one of whom is equal to five of the Bulgarians are closing in on the sacred city of Monastir and will soon have it in their possession.

Meanwhile the Roumanians regardless of tactics or strategy set out to invade Hungary and occupy Transylvania. They left their rear exposed to the attack of the Germans who had evidently planned out the whole campaign as it is now proceeding. They left inadequate garrisons in their forts and gave battle where they should have retreated; retreated where they should have stood like a rock and generally made a muddle of their whole campaign.

Now that the Germans have taken Constanza and Czernavoda they have the Russians and the Roumanians in a very bad position. Theoretically there should be nothing to prevent the rapid march of Von Mackensen's troops to Bucharest; but in the working out of the war game it must not be forgotten that the unexpected often happens. The Teutons were just as sure a few months ago that they would batter their way through Verdun to Paris and now their calculations have not only failed but what ground they won at an enormous cost has been taken away from them.

In Roumania winter will be the friend of the Roumanians and Russians. If the winter begins now it will be difficult for the Germans to make further progress and Roumania and Russia will have ample time to recuperate and to prepare for another campaign.

CALIFORNIA FARM ADVISERS

California carries the practical work of the training given at the University farm school out into the fields of the state. This aid given to the farmers has been made possible by the Smith-Lever bill, passed by the federal congress, which provides liberal appropriations for the support of agricultural education in the different states of the union.

California has a feature which is of immense value in this work. That is the state farm adviser, who is appointed for each county which organizes a farm bureau with a membership of at least one-fifth of the farmers of the county. It also appropriates a sum of $2000 a year for three years for office and traveling expenses.

This adviser is appointed jointly by the University of California and the United States department of agriculture, who pay his salary and supervise his work. The active agent in appointing these advisers and in supervising their work is Professor B. G. Crocheton of the University of California.

Fourteen counties have already taken advantage of this provision and have farm advisers at work. These counties are Humboldt and Glenn counties in the northern part of the state; San Diego, Ventura, Imperial and Kern in the south; Yolo, Napa, Solano, Alameda, San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Placer and Madera in the central part of the state.

All these counties report favorably on the assistance given by the farm advisers. The services of the adviser are being taken advantage of daily and in all the counties he is kept busy traveling from one point to another. The adviser may be called to a certain farm district to advise as to the properties of the soil and the best crops to plant; as to the kind and quantity of fertilizer needed in certain places. He is ready to give all manner of expert advice as he is an expert.

The farm expert is a graduate of an agricultural college, who has had broad and practical experience in agricultural matters and who is acquainted with the particular problems of his own locality. His specific function is to bring the scientific information of the agricultural colleges and experiment stations to the particular farmer who needs it. He is always ready to interpret and translate this scientific information into the common and simple language of the farm. He is supposed to take a pride in making the farms of his county pay.

There is nothing of the bureau about this office. It is practical. The farm adviser is a man who is well acquainted with the actual work of the farm and loves it. He is an outdoors man, a man of the fields, familiar with cattle as well as with everything else pertaining to the farm.

In almost every case where a farm adviser has been appointed the farmers have come to love and to trust their official and while there may have been some hesitation at first in taking advantage of his services that has completely vanished and the adviser is kept so

CRISWELL FOR CONGRESS

Our friend and townsmen Mr. Salter of Glendale, recommends that the citizens of Glendale be permitted to read the following about his friend Criswell which was published in a recent issue of the San Fernando Democrat:

The three-cornered fight in this congressional district is developing a very interesting contest. Opposing Congressman Randall and ex-Congressman Bell is Ralph L. Criswell, who for a number of years has been one of the best known men in the labor movement in Los Angeles. He is a printer employed on one of the Los Angeles dailies, and not only has the confidence of the laboring men of the city but has the esteem and respect of all business and professional men and women who are acquainted with him.

When Mayor Rose of Los Angeles appointed the Municipal Annexation commission, for the purpose of working out plans for the disposition of surplus aqueduct water on an equitable basis to all concerned, Mr. Criswell was selected as the representative of the working class of the commission. His friends confidently assert that any person who came in contact with the commission while working out the details of the annexation of the San Fernando valley will substantiate their claim that he was one of the most valuable members of that body, at all times standing for fair play and justice to all concerned.

Mr. Criswell's friends say that he will make just as good a congressman as he did a member of the Annexation commission and they are appealing to the voters of the valley to vote for him on account of his work in assisting to settle the vexatious water question in this valley.

Personals

C. W. Ingledue and family motored to Monrovia Sunday.

H. L. Miller and wife, D. M. Clarke and Miss Jessie Robertson motored to Venice Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. C. Myers, 921 Mariposa Court, is making a visit to her friends in Whittier. She will return shortly.

Mrs. McLaughlin and Miss Rose McLaughlin of 916 Damasco Court, were guests of friends on Maple avenue Wednesday.

J. T. McClelland, C. K. Robertshaw, John Fansett and R. H. Brown motored to Big Bear Saturday and returned Sunday night. They secured some ducks.

Miss Ella McDonald of Pasadena and Miss Gertrude Tucker of Los Angeles were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Goodwin of West Tenth street.

Mrs. Elias Ayers of 207 Cedar street, who was injured while alighting from a P. E. car last March, is slowly recovering and is now able to move about in a wheel chair.

"You will find a $4.00 check for subscription in the mail before November 1," was the cheering greeting the editor received from a subscriber the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Ellen Bundick, aunt of Mrs. Florence Kurtz, 1001 Melrose avenue, who has been quite ill for some time past, is very much better this week and is on the road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Taylor, 1318 West Ninth street, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Don Doig of Los Angeles, motored to Elizabeth lake early Sunday morning where they enjoyed a quail, rabbit and duck hunt. The party went out by way of Bouquet canyon and returned by way of Palmdale and Mint canyon.

The
"Ophthalmometer,
Absolutely Accurate"

There is but one real scientific way to refract the astigmatic defects of the eye. That is with this new instrument, which is absolute in its findings.

Without this nearly all prescriptions are more or less guess work and the real cause for so many unsatisfactory results in optical work; therefore have your eyes refracted at my office, which obligates you in no way.

Dr. C. Stuart Steelman

Refracting Specialist.

1104 W. 7th St. Glendale. Phone 416-J. Evenings 6 to 9.

Mrs. C. Bullinger, 244 South Central avenue, returned last week from a three months' trip in Iowa. Her sister, Mrs. Boettler, returned with her and will spend the winter here.

The Rebekahs are planning a hard times social for tomorrow night in Odd Fellows hall for the Odd Fellows and their families. A good time is promised all who attend. Come masked and in costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peckham, 321 South Louise street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Miss Edna Learned, Mrs. C. R. Lusby, Lloyd Wilson and Verne Wilson in their cottage at Balboa beach during the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Taylor, 1318 West Ninth street, accompanied by some Los Angeles friends, motored to Elizabeth lake Saturday, on a duck hunting trip. They were successful in obtaining a goodly quantity of ducks.

H. A. Martin of Red Bluff, Cal., spent Saturday and Sunday in Glendale at the home of P. F. Rentfrow, 1542 West Fifth street. Mr. Martin is a member of Company H, Second regiment and has just returned from the Mexican border.

The Hon. Mattison B. Jones of 106 Orange street at the request of President Millspaugh of the state Normal school in Los Angeles addressed 2,000 students of that institution this morning on the legislative achievements of the present Democratic administration.

The ladies of the First Lutheran church met with considerable success in their three days' bazaar which was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday last week. They raised a very substantial sum and will sell off the goods left over from time to time in the Anderson store at 704 West Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Richardson of 315 South Louise street, returned from Antelope valley Saturday. Mr. Richardson has some valuable gold mining interests there. During their stay in the valley Mr. and Mrs. Richardson did some good pioneering for Stephen C. Packer, local candidate for supervisor.

J. B. McClellan of 318 South Central avenue, returned Saturday from a two months' stay in Illinois. Mr. McClellan has a farm in the famous corn belt in the Sucker state and reports an average crop with prices good. New corn is now selling at 75 cents per bushel and the farmers predict $1 per bushel for December corn. "Jess" says that a few weeks' work back on the farm has done him lots of good and he says that the Horseshoe club may look for some high scores from him now.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Routzahn of Williamstown, Pa., were visitors in Los Angeles, Sunday. They are old friends of the Rev. and Mrs. Mottern of the First Lutheran church and telephoned to them to meet them in Los Angeles. Consequently the Rev. and Mrs. Mottern and Mr. and Mrs. R. Z. Imler of Lomita avenue, motored to Los Angeles and had a pleasant visit with their old friends for an hour. The Routzahns are en route to visit Mrs. Routzahn's father, Mr. Mundwiler, who is a famous musician.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club and Mrs. R. W. Meeker, attended the meeting of the Daughters of 1812 Society, which was entertained at luncheon at the Bostonian Tea House, Mercantile Place, Los Angeles, Friday, by Mrs. Allen McIntyre of Pasadena, corresponding secretary of the society. The entertainment was given in one of the private rooms of the tea house, which was beautifully decorated with Cecil Bruner roses and ferns. After luncheon the regular business of the society was transacted.

Invitations have been issued by Julius Kranz and Miss Gertrude Champlain for the parents and the friends of their pupils to attend a recital in the High school auditorium, Saturday evening, November 4, at 8 p. m. Mr. Kranz has a number of violin pupils who have made most commendable progress and will be able to put on a creditable exhibition of what they have accomplished by their studies. Miss Champlain has also a number of carefully trained piano pupils and those who have heard their work are aware that a treat awaits the audience on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson D. White of 1431 West Third street, enjoy their little daughter Helen Friday evening at a Hallowe'en party. The house was beautifully decorated in Hallowe'en symbols. Everywhere the orange and black of the season were to be seen. The children came masked and in costume. A buffet luncheon was served. Ghosts, witches, black cats were everywhere—on the walls, among the flowers and on the buffet. The guests of the little hostess, Miss Helen White were Joy Willisford, Louise Berry, Vincent Berry, Wayne Yarick, Margaret Langley, Virginia Witt, Dorothy Van Dyke, Wilbur Reed and John Blake Franklin.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

I announce to the citizens of Glendale that I am an applicant for the position of postmaster of Glendale City. Any assistance will be appreciated.

SYMPOSIUM OF DRY ROTEXCERPTED FROM THE "WAIL OF THE WETS" FOR THE DRIES

(By Samuel Parker)

(Boose bewailings). "Have you heard of the desolation—the awful calamitous fate, indescribable situation that blighted a neighboring state. That turned all her fertile valleys into ashens and desolate plains and of her fruits and her flowers, not a vestige of beauty remains. Her cities, marts of great traffic where merchants the money pile into banks, whose vaults were bursting, now empty for mile on mile, are the stores and "for sale at a bargain" is plastered on sidewalk and walls, while the desolate look on the face of the owner aloud for sympathy calls.

The railroad so recently burdened with business, now business lacks, has taken off passenger service and talk of removing the tracks. No longer cometh the tourist on whom coast people rely, hence for railroads, hotels, boozers, our business had to die. The craft that bridged the Pacific no Orient business got, in the harbor now idly loafing, or sent up the sloughs to rot. Oh Washington and Seattle, your ruin is complete, the ranchman herdeth his cattle on the grass grown in your street, your fate utter desolation, prosperity passes you by, nothing for you but sack cloth and ashes, since you foolishly voted "dry."

Symposium of "Dry" Prosperity. (Excerpted from "Dry Proof Facts") (Tourist) "I am very glad to see you, how are you Mr. Brown, I came a little early that I might pass this town, and being a mere tourist no energy relax in passing through this dead town e'er you took up your tracks." (R. R. Agent.) "There, now, my friend, I'm sorry that such reports should be started from such a lying source and gain such currency, the foolish southland tactics resentment must provoke because this wet-dry question is too serious for a joke. As heretofore we welcome the tourist of today, we treat him well in Seattle and send him on his way. It's slander on the tourist that he would e'er refuse a routing through Seattle because of banished booze. By this dry route they're coming in numbers even more and we put on extra service much earlier than before."

Seaward this tourist looking, on oceans breast to see, all sorts of craft deep laden, proof of prosperity, along the street the great big stores, finest of goods displayed, and busy buyers paid the cash, proof of a prosperous trade, the grocer and the butcher, not given to statements rash, declare "our trade is growing, our customers pay cash."

"Do you still own that property fronting on the bay?" "Yes but it is advancing and not for sale today." Sample of talk this tourist heard on every hand, and such proof of life in a "dead" town he could not understand. Being somewhat travel weary concluded he would stay in this awful dry cursed city at least another day. At hotel quoted empty by wets to prove "dry" dull, he sought for entertainment, but all the rooms were full.

Summary

The "Ananias" statements, made by the boozers, lack in noted disproportion the element of facts. The railroads still are running much in the same old way, except to find it difficult to easy meet today demands for extra travel and none ask to go by the noble northern coast states because they voted dry.

The "wets" will have a hard task to amply apologize for all their wild wet statements whose other name is —, but most of all the tourist did their diatribes abuse, for these were all time quoted as mainly living on booze, and would no longer travel, but bid the coast goodby, railroads and hotels, ruined, with California dry.

GARDEN SOCIETY SURPRISE

Every adult attending the stereopticon lecture to be given on Thursday evening, November 2, at the High school auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock sharp, will be presented either with a daffodil bulb or a beautiful California Christmas card, according to individual choice. This gift giving is to be regarded in the light of a souvenir of this unusual and momentous occasion, for seldom does Glendale have the opportunity of welcoming such a distinguished visitor. All the world is invited. Every resident of Glendale is asked to inform their friends and neighbors of the treat in store, to be had absolutely free. The chief end and aim of the Glendale Garden society is to promote home and civic beauty. It provided the public of Glendale last year with four wonderful stereopticon lectures on various phases of civic and horticultural work, it plans even greater work for this winter, but this lecture to be given by Dr. J. W. Gregg of the University of California on Public Parks and Playgrounds may rightly be considered as an epoch marking event. Let us show Dr. J. W. Gregg what a rousing reception Glendale can offer.

NANNO WOODS

AT GLENDALE HIGHFORTY YOUNG MEN RECEIVING MILITARY DRILL—SOCIAL-IST CLUB ACTIVE

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching. Yes, sir, Glendale High is the scene of real preparedness these days.

What! Haven't you seen our new army? Anyone who hasn't should take the first opportunity to "review" Glendale Union High school's national defense in action. Already Mr. Wright has succeeded in whipping together this young corps of recruits into a pretty straight line, and although it is only an awkward squad as yet, it will soon make our citizens sit up and take notice.

At least Mr. Wright makes this prediction, and indeed, with those manly brown suits it is already a presentable looking company, causing considerable favorable comment among the young ladies. And no wonder. Just give Berns the once over.

Forty fellows have now signed up for military drill, a course offered by the school this year for the first time. Among these are several prominent debaters who strongly opposed military training for schools in debates last year. When interviewed they refused to make statements.

The editor received the following correspondence yesterday from Socialist headquarters:

The Socialist club is certainly a lively bunch of students. They have organized into a unified, systematized body to distribute the Benson leaflets and their efforts are meeting with unprecedented success. The Socialist organization wishes to announce that it has the best speaker in the west to address the assembly Wednesday, November 1 at 12:45. The public is cordially invited.

MARION LEHMAN,

President.

It must be admitted that although the Socialists are not numerous they are truly a live bunch.

The Republicans admit that Wilson had a big day in Glendale yesterday. G. O. P. leaders, however, claim that Hughes will have a bigger day next Friday. Prominent members of the Republican club are working hard on plans which they believe will open Glendale's eyes. They were greatly encouraged by Mr. Simm's statement yesterday that every young person should take an interest in national affairs.

The Senior's Hallowe'en hop was a grand success. Excellent music, exceptionally good punch, clever decorations and a jolly crowd were all there. What more is necessary for a dance? From the start of the grand march, led by Ed Seay and Helen MacMullin until the fun was halted by the arrival of midnight seemed scarcely an hour, so swiftly did the minutes fly. Indeed, the Seniors are to be congratulated on the whole affair.

RECIPROCITY DAY AT TROPICO

Thursday, November 2, will be Reciprocity day at the Thursday afternoon club which will meet in the city hall on that date. Mrs. E. D. Knight, state president of the California Federation of Women's clubs, will be present and will speak on "The Value of Reciprocity Days." Mrs. Lloyd Harrison of Los Angeles will also speak. Miss Bessie Chapin of Los Angeles, who is coming into prominence as a violinist will play several violin solos accompanied by Miss Millicent Virden. Miss Lulu Lanterman of La Canada, will sing two solos, accompanied by Miss Harriet Lanterman. Mrs. Ella W. Richardson will give a brief history of early days in Tropico and Mrs. Edwin Virden will speak on the more recent history of the city. The hostesses will be Mrs. Harry Bowman, chairman, Mrs. Clemens, Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Phillips.

MEETING OF D. A. R.

General Richard Gridley chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at the home of the regent, Mrs. J. H. Braly, 205 North Brand boulevard, Thursday, November 2, at 2 p. m. Mrs. John C. Lynch, state regent, will give an address. All members are requested to be present on this important occasion. Anyone eligible to be a member is invited to be present and all interested in the work of the society will be made welcome. Members are privileged to bring guests with them.

ATTEND CONVENTION

The Christian church Sunday school was well represented at the state and county Sunday school convention at Pasadena, Tuesday and Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Mrs. C. E. Hutton, assistant superintendent of the school carried a full load of workers in her car to the day session. Mrs. J. E. Peters, cradle roll superintendent, did likewise. The young people turned out for the evening session. All sessions were well attended.

The speakers of both local and national importance brought inspiring messages, and altogether it was one of the best gatherings of its kind attended by our workers. Why cannot we secure such a convention for Glendale occasionally?

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Tuesday; foggy along the coast; westerly winds.

Glendale Now Has An Independent Postoffice

And there is bound to be more or less agitation as to who will be postmaster, however,

There should be no question as to where to buy groceries.

Just go to Lyons Grocery

We give you first class pure foods and a service that is second to none.

Now is the time to buy groceries for the future.

Indications are that flour will go to $15 a barrel and all canned goods are rising in price. We will be glad to advise you to the best of our ability on the food market.
